SYNDICATE LOOTPresident McCurdy's Share
In the ProfitINSURANCE INVESTIGATION IS NOT TO BE BALKED.McCurdy Says He Will Not Resign—
No Perjury Proceedings Likely—Inquiry Adjourned.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Richard A. McCurdy, president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, made the statement today that he had no intention of resigning, that he was elected to serve until June 7th next and that nothing can or will drive him out.

It was also announced from the district attorney's office that no action will be taken regarding the George J. Plunkett matter that was turned over to the district attorney yesterday by the legislative committee which is investigating the insurance companies.

Closing one of the most sensational and strenuous weeks of the insurance investigation, the committee just before adjournment today concluded the examination of Richard A. McCurdy, with the exception of a few details he is to supply next week. McCurdy has been on the stand the greater part of the three days of this week's session and some of his testimony has been the most startling added before the committee.

His testimony, today, however, was very much of a technical nature, although of much value to the committee in its work.

When he resumed the stand this morning it was to take up his testimony as to the Mutual Life's connection with trust companies that was interrupted by adjournment yesterday. The information furnished by McCurdy disclosed that the trust company connected with the Mutual Life is connected because very prosperous soon after they were taken up by the Mutual.

Two cases in point were the Morris-town Trust company at Morris-town, N. J., where the McCurdy family lives, and the United States Mortgage and Trust company. The former is now controlled by the Mutual Life and McCurdy testified that he had been a director of this trust company, he is a large stockholder and would take more stock if he could get it.

The Mutual Life keeps a balance of not less than $200,000 with this company, on which it draws from 2 to 3 per cent. The latter rate has been paid only since September, McCurdy did not know the holdings of the other members of his family in this company.

In the syndicate operations McCurdy said he participated, not with the idea of drawing funds but to obtain his share of the commissions allowed by bankers.

McCurdy was asked what life insurance he carried and he was unable to say at once, but James M. Beck, his counsel, presented a statement showing when the policies were taken out, for what amounts and the plan. These aggregated $200,000, all in the Mutual. McCurdy testified that he was also insured in the Equitable, the Washington and the Connecticut Mutual.

Before he left the stand, McCurdy said he paid $4500 for his apartment in the Greenview building, which is owned by the Mutual.

When McCurdy was excused, his son, Robert H. McCurdy, was called to explain some charges for traveling expenses in 1904.

He said one of his duties as general manager was to visit the agencies about the country. Three such trips were made, the expenses of which aggregated about $3000. McCurdy said that while on one trip he was accompanied by his father, mother, wife and the latter's maid, but the expense accounts were for himself individually, and did not include any member of his family or party. He had a private car on one of these trips. He could not tell why the expenses on these trips were so large, but said he would furnish the details later.

McCurdy was followed by W. W. Richards, controller of the Mutual, who explained the manner in which the Mutual acquired some properties by foreclosure.

The committee adjourned until next Tuesday.

When the hearing was resumed today Richard A. McCurdy, president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, was recalled to resume his testimony as to the connection of the Mutual Life Insurance company with the trust companies which were being investigated when the committee adjourned yesterday.

Witnesses did not think that the insurance companies were led into speculative transactions because of connections with subsidiary companies. The Mutual had a substantial participation in the Brooklyn Wharf and Warehouse company, and had it not had some interest in the United States Mortgage and Trust company would never have had an opportunity to invest in it. The Brooklyn Wharf and Warehouse company went into the hands of a receiver.

The Mutual Life Insurance company first became a stockholder in the Morris-town Trust company, the witness and members of his family did not own any great amount of the trust company's stock.

McCurdy said he owned 512 shares of the stock of the Morris-town Trust company and is a director of it. Several members of the finance committee of the Mutual are members of the executive committee of the trust company. He presumed that Lewis A. Thebaud, his son-in-law, is a stockholder of the trust company.

The Morris-town Trust company, he said, paid dividends of 18 per cent, the rate having increased 2 per cent annually for several years.

The Mutual Life Insurance company's deposits with the Morris-town Trust company amount to $200,000. For a year or two prior to 1903, the rate of interest paid on Mutual Life deposits was 2 per cent. Other depositors were paid 3 per cent for years. In explanation, McCurdy said the trust company paid 3 per cent to secure miscellaneous business and probably would pay only 2 per cent to a large depositor who might withdraw at any moment.

Hughes brought out that since January, 1904, the Mutual deposits in the trust company were never less than $200,000, and remarked that there was not much in the fear that the deposits would be withdrawn suddenly.

McCurdy was prompted as to dates by James Timpon, assistant treasurer of the Mutual Life Insurance company, whose answers were taken as those of McCurdy.

McCurdy next testified to a sale of 5 large number of shares of trust company stock by the Mutual Life Insurance company on December 31, 1901, and a purchase of new stock of the trust company, availing itself of a portion of an increase in stock on January 2, 1902. By this, he said, the Mutual Life Insurance company made profits of $350,000.

McCurdy said he presumed he was paid 3 per cent on his individual deposit with the trust company. He could not explain why the Mutual's deposit was increased to $400,000 in January, 1902, and Beck, counsel for the Mutual, answered for him that loans had not been made to the trust company.

McCurdy said that both he and the Mutual Life Insurance company had 200 shares in the Fifth Avenue Trust company, and that the Mutual Life Insurance company's deposits in it were $1,000,000. McCurdy handed in the following lists of syndicates in which both McCurdy and the Mutual Life Insurance company are interested:

TACOMA EASY
FOR THE ANGELSLOST ANOTHER GAME TO BAUM'S
GOOD PITCHING.Wrangling Game at Portland Won by Webfoot—Oakland Scored Freely
Off the Seals.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Baum's pitching, errors by Casey and Flodo's hitting, were the features in Tacoma's defeat at the hands of the home team today. After the first inning when he allowed two hits and a base on balls that netted the visitors three runs, Baum was invincible and blanked the Tacoma during the remaining innings, allowing but three hits in all. He was also effective at the bat and his two timely singles and a neat sacrifice enabled his team to win. Flood put the home run in the seventh when there was no one on bases. In addition, the Los Angeles second baseman tapped out two singles. The locals secured a total of eleven hits off Fitzgerald and the score would have been much larger had they been able to hit the ball when men were on bases. The locals had ten men left on bases. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Los Angeles	11	11	1
Tacoma	3	3	3

Batteries—Baum and Eager; Fitzgerald and Hogan.

At Portland—Hitt's wildness in the first inning started trouble for the San Francisco today and Wheeler took his place. Portland scored four runs in the first and second on passes and errors. Empire Bankin expelled Wilson, and Householder from the grounds in the ninth inning. The game was marred throughout by wrangling. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
San Francisco	4	4	3
Portland	4	4	1

Batteries—Hitt, Wheeler and Wilson; Garvin and McLain.

At San Francisco—Both pitchers were hit rather freely today, Oakland getting a quartet of hits and runs in the first inning. The Northerners bunched a half dozen times in the field and the poor playing assisted in Oakland's victory. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Oakland	11	11	6
San Francisco	8	12	2

Batteries—Lynn and Blankenship; Burg and Rymen.

Congregational Church Missions.

TAR HEEL STATE GREETED
OUR POPULAR PRESIDENT
Day's Incidents Included Visit With
Widow of the Great General,
Stonewall Jackson

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 19.—A genuinely hearty reception was given President Roosevelt today when, as the guest of the state and the city, he joined in the parade which first made its way to the state capital and then to the fair grounds. The crowds constantly cheered the president's progress as the carriage passed along the line of march.

At one point 1500 negro school children and students of negro colleges sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." President Roosevelt bowed right and left to these as he passed. At the luncheon the president made a brief address.

Just before the president's train left he remarked: "By George, gentlemen, I have had a good time."

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 19.—The ovation which President Roosevelt received during his journey through a portion of Virginia yesterday morning was continued as he travelled through North Carolina. Beginning with his arrival at Raleigh at 9 o'clock this morning, he was greeted by cheering crowds at Durham, Greensboro, High Point, Lexington, Salisbury and Charlotte, the demonstration in this city being a fitting farewell of the citizens of the old Tar-heel state.

The feature of the day was his visit to the fair which is in progress at Raleigh. Here he delivered an address which dealt with the important question of railroad ownership and the organizations of capital and labor. His speech was given close attention and he frequently was interrupted by hearty applause. He was accompanied to the fair grounds by Mrs. Roosevelt, and she too, was the recipient of much attention.

At Durham, where a stop of ten minutes was made, the president devoted his remarks to the students of Trinity college, who were gathered in force to meet him. A flat car had been converted into a gaily decorated stand, and from this the president spoke. He invited to remain on the president's train while in the state, stopped here with a hundred Charlotte women assisting. After Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the cars she sent a handsome bouquet of American Beauty roses and a note to Mrs. Jackson.

Lieutenant Governor Winston, acting for Governor Glenn, who is attending his brother's funeral, Senator Simmons and prominent North Carolinians invited to remain on the president's train while in the state, stopped here with a hundred Charlotte women assisting. After Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the cars she sent a handsome bouquet of American Beauty roses and a note to Mrs. Jackson.

The citizens committee stood in waiting while he escorted Mrs. Jackson to Mrs. Roosevelt and introduced her. While the president was speaking in the park, Mrs. Jackson entered the train. Mrs. Roosevelt, as her home with a hundred Charlotte women assisting. After Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the cars she sent a handsome bouquet of American Beauty roses and a note to Mrs. Jackson.

"He is a mighty fine fighter, Mrs. Jackson; a mighty fellow, by Jove," he said.

Mrs. Roosevelt, as her home with a hundred Charlotte women assisting. After Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the cars she sent a handsome bouquet of American Beauty roses and a note to Mrs. Jackson.

In the course of his remarks to the students, the president said: "There must be no coercion of opinion if collegiate training is to bring forth full fruit. You men of this college, you men throughout the South, who have had collegiate training, you men throughout the nation who have had collegiate training, what you do, you do it of your own free will, you do it because you believe in it, you do it because you have a good time and believe you do it, believe in play with all my heart. Play when you play, but work when you work, and remember that your having gone through college does not so much confer a special privilege as it imposes a special obligation on you."

"You have a right to expect a special quality of leadership from the men to whom much has been given in the way of collegiate education. You are not entitled to any special privileges but you are entitled to a peculiar accountability; you have earned the right to be held responsible for what you do. Each one of you, if he is worth his salt, wishes, when he graduates, to pay some portion of the debt due to his alma mater. You have received from her, during your years of attendance in her halls, certain privileges in the way of scholarship, in the way of companionship, which make it incumbent upon you to repay what you have been given. You cannot repay that to the colleges save in one way."

"By the quality of your citizenship, as displayed in the actual affairs of life, you can make it an honor to the college for having sent you forth into the world. That is the only way in which you can repay to the college what the college has done for you. I earnestly hope that you, and those like you, in all the colleges of this land, will make it evident to the generation that is rising that you are fit to take the leadership; that the training has not been wasted; that you are ready to render to the state the kind of service which is invaluable because it cannot be bought, because there is no price that can be put on it."

"We have the right to expect from college men not merely their disinterested service but also intelligent service. The few peoples who did self-government always have to turn against the levelling men who do better, they do what he knows to be wrong, and also against the foolish men who may mean very well but in actual fact turns out the ally of the other man who does not mean well; and we must depend upon you men, who have been given special facilities in education, to guide our people aright so that they shall neither fall into the pit of folly, nor into the pit of knavery."

A Roosevelt County.

A bit of sentiment was responsible for a short stop at Lexington where the president was greeted by several hundred people to whom he spoke briefly. Lexington is the county seat of Davidson county, the only county in North Carolina that gave President Roosevelt a majority at the last national election.

President Roosevelt was requested to stop for a few minutes to extend greetings to the people and receive greetings from the 300 orphan children cared for in an asylum there. The little ones made a pretty sight waving their American flags as the train came to a stop.

Tomorrow morning the president will pay a visit to Roswell, the home of his mother. From there he will go to Atlanta, where most of the day will be spent. Mrs. Roosevelt will leave him when the capital of Georgia is reached and return to Washington.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 18.—The president's train arrived here over the Southern railway at 7 o'clock on schedule time and during the thirty minutes of his stay here this evening he had from 25,000 people a reception of the most enthusiastic character. Throughout a brilliantly lighted street he was rapidly conveyed in a motor car for four blocks to Vance park, where he spoke for fifteen minutes, although he had intended to speak but ten. The crowd was so great that fully 10,000 were denied the privilege of hearing him. He created the wildest enthusiasm by referring to the Mecklenburg declaration of independence and Mrs. S. C. Jackson, widow of General Stonewall Jackson and Lieutenant William E. Shipp, a monument of whom he passed en route to the park.

Stonewall Jackson's Widow.

The feature of his visit was his meeting with the widow of the great Confederate leader. Mrs. Jackson lives with the widow of the great Confederate leader. Mrs. Jackson lives with the widow of the great Confederate leader. Mrs. Jackson lives with the widow of the great Confederate leader.

When the president was introduced he took her hand and held it for fully five minutes.

"Mrs. Jackson, you don't know how glad I am to meet you. You are the widow of Stonewall Jackson? Why it's worth the whole trip down here to have a chance to shake your hand."

He referred to the grandson, Jackson Christian, whom he appointed to a cadetship at West point.

"He is a mighty fine fighter, Mrs. Jackson; a mighty fellow, by Jove," he said.

The citizens committee stood in waiting while he escorted Mrs. Jackson to Mrs. Roosevelt and introduced her. While the president was speaking in the park, Mrs. Jackson entered the train. Mrs. Roosevelt, as her home with a hundred Charlotte women assisting. After Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the cars she sent a handsome bouquet of American Beauty roses and a note to Mrs. Jackson.

The best product.

Roosevelt closed his speech by saying: "And now in saying good-bye I want to say to you men and women that I have been immensely impressed by North Carolina—with her agriculture, with her industries, but that the one that I like best is the crop of children."

Here the president held up a little girl in his arms saying: "Here is the best product."

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 19.—Last night's cheering of welcome from the thousands of men, women and children greeted President Roosevelt as he stepped to the observation platform of his car when the special

EXPRESS THIEF
WAS ARRESTEDHE STOLE $101,000 FROM THE PITTS-BURG EXPRESS OFFICE.Says the Money is Intact and Can Be Returned—Old Story of Small Wages.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 19.—Edward C. Cunliffe, the Adams Express company's employee, who disappeared from Pittsburgh with $101,000 in cash, was arrested here today. He made a confession and expressed his willingness to return at once to Pittsburgh. He declared that the money he took is intact and that it could be restored, but declined to tell until his return to Pittsburgh where it is hidden. On his person when arrested was found $200 in cash.

In the presence of Superintendent Birmingham, Detective Thornhill, Henry Curtis, the chief agent of the Adams Express company, and Captain Arnold, of the Bridgeport detective force, Cunliffe admitted that he took the money.

"Five minutes after I took the money I was sorry," said Cunliffe, "but it was too late to do anything. What can you expect from a man getting a salary of only $63 a month and handling thousands of dollars a day? I remember once when I had $250,000 in cash. I was tempted then, but I thought it over and decided to be honest."

The robbery for which Cunliffe is wanted in Pittsburgh was committed on the night of October 9th train bearing him and his party stopped at the Southern railway passenger station in Greensboro at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The president responded by smiling, bowing and waving his hands. He addressed the gathering as follows:

The Historic Past.

"My fellow citizens: It is indeed a pleasure to be greeted by you today. No man could fail to be made a better American by traveling through this great historic state of yours and where, throughout his journey, he sees place after place associated with the historic past, such as this city of yours here, right near the Guilford battle ground, commemorating by its name one of Washington's great generals."

"North Carolina's history has ever been high and honorable, and surely my friends, it is right that we should remember that the mighty deeds of our forefathers are not to serve to us as excuses for inaction on our part, but as spurs to drive us forward to doing our duty in our turn. We respect the son of a worthy father, if he feels that the fact that his father did well makes it incumbent upon him to strive to do better."

Strong Lunged Leader.

When the president concluded some strong man in the crowd yelled loudly: "Three cheers for our president," and they were given him with a hearty will and vim. The president smiled, waved his adieu to the crowd, and the train pulled out of the station on its way Southward.

The crowd that assembled to greet the president was immense, even the roofs of the box cars down the railroad yards being covered with people.

SALISBURY, N. C., Oct. 19.—The president's brief stop was signaled by a most cordial reception. Ten thousand people greeted him. In the party were 1500 school children bearing small American flags, a salute from the Ramsey battery, which did conspicuous service for the Confederacy, announced the approach of the president's train. United States Senator Overman, who accompanied the train from Raleigh to this city, introduced the president in a few words.

MOUNT ZION, N. C., Oct. 19.—President Roosevelt's special train passed through here at 10:20 this evening, exactly on schedule time. The train was late in leaving Charlotte, on account of the president's speaking longer there than he had planned, and when it pulled through Lowell, a small station near Charlotte, it was eight minutes behind time. All of this was made up easily in the fifty-five mile run from Lowell to Mount Zion.

Although some stops incident to the handling of the train will occur there are no stops scheduled until Rosewell, Ga., is reached at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 20.—The president's special left here at 12:30 o'clock this morning. The occupants of the president's car were apparently asleep when the train reached here. No demonstration was made and the train remained here only long enough to change engines.

DEVIL'S ASSETS
APPEAR TO EXCEED
GROSS LIABILITIES.

TOPEKA, Oct. 19.—The report of the receivers filed today in the United States District court here showed the assets of the various properties of C. J. Devlin, who failed last July, to be $4,563,948, and the direct liabilities $4,592,208.

This indicates that the assets amount to nearly $500,000 more than the direct liabilities. There is listed however, $1,039,249, in contingent liabilities, these being liabilities for which the receivers do not know whether they are liable or not. Should it be necessary to pay these liabilities will exceed the assets by $674,639.

The most interesting item in the report is that one which deals with C. J. Devlin personally. This shows that his personal assets amount to $1,747,416 and that his direct liabilities are $901,442. This is listed separately in the report, because of the interwoven relations existing between Devlin and the several companies. Among the contingent liabilities is an item of $2,000,000 owed by the Southwestern Fuel company, in which Devlin was largely interested and which is in involuntary bankruptcy.

DELANO JUSTICE WAS FOUND DEAD IN A
JANITOR'S OFFICE.

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 19.—Captain D. S. Cloverdale, justice of the peace at Delano, a veteran of the Civil war and a resident of this county for fifteen years, was found dead in the rear of his office at Delano early this morning. His death was probably due to heart failure. Captain Cloverdale was last seen alive at 5 o'clock last evening. He was then apparently in good health. When he did not appear at his home it was thought that he had gone to Bakersfield on business. When the janitor of his office opened the building at 6 o'clock this morning the body was discovered. The deceased was over 70 years of age and was well known throughout the state.

Train Went Through Bridge.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Oct. 19.—A Missouri Pacific freight train crashed through a bridge between Weeping Water and Nebraska today, instantly killing Engineer R. F. Young and Fireman William Sheffield. The engine and several cars were precipitated twenty-five feet into the stream, crushing the engine to death. The train carried a passenger coach, but it did not leave the rails and no passengers were hurt.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Articles of incorporation of the Merced Canyon railway company were filed today. The capital stock is $4,000,000 of which $100,000 has been subscribed by the directors, A. H. Payson, E. E. Cady, Harvey K. Gregory, L. W. Helman, Jr., and William E. Heron.

In the articles of incorporation it is stated that it is the purpose to construct a road from Merced, Merced county, in a general northeasterly direction and following the general course of the Merced river, to a point in Mariposa county near the boundary of the Yosemite national park. The estimated length of the proposed road is ninety miles.

It is stated that in incorporating the above company the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe have joined hands to defeat the aims of the Yosemite Valley railroad company which is backed by W. H. Crockett, Henry T. Scott, Dr. Harry T. Tuck, and other capitalists of this city and Oakland, and which is now engaged in building a standard gauge road from Merced to the Yosemite.

CANAL PLANS ARE NOT DECIDED ONRUMORS TO THE CONTRARY ARE OFFICIALLY DENIED.Expert Engineers Will Continue Sessions for Six Weeks Longer Before Making Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The following was issued by the isthmian canal commission today:

"The rumors to the published rumors to the effect that the majority of the members of the consulting board of engineers have decided in favor of a lock canal at Panama, General Davis, chairman of the board, said today:

"So far as I am aware, neither the board nor any individual member of it has expressed any opinion as to the type of canal it favors. The board is not in possession of all the facts bearing upon the question of type. It returns to this city entirely free from any prejudice of bias respecting that type, so far as known to me."

"The board will be in continuous session, either as a board or in separate committees, until they reach a conclusion, which will be arrived at in the month of November, probably near the close. Two committees have been appointed to study the two types of canal—sea level and lock—and these committees are endeavoring to develop the best canal of each type. When the work shall have been completed the whole board will be ready to decide which type they prefer."

"The members of the isthmian board of consulting engineers have all returned to Washington and tomorrow will resume their meetings."

"It has been found that the mass of material on hand was so large that three separate committees have been appointed to study a special series of plans for a sea level canal and a lock canal, and to consider the unit prices for both. These committees consist of three members each and General Davis is chairman of all of them. It is meant that the first two committees shall make plans and consult the third about the question of cost."

"The engineers have promised not to divulge any of their plans and this rule is kept so strictly that even Chairman Davis, in the dark about their proceedings. It can be stated, however, that the decision will favor either a lock or a sea level canal, the idea of first building a lock canal and afterwards changing it into a sea level canal by means of a second canal built at one side of it being found impracticable."

"The board is expected to continue in session for about six weeks more and the foreign engineers hope to return to Europe by the end of November."

"Although the isthmian canal is a hard one, especially for those members accustomed to a cold climate, they are all highly enthusiastic over the result of the journey. The heat was at most times excessive and in the rooms where the meetings were held, the thermometer often registered 90 degrees. The

LAST TRIBUTE
TO GREAT ACTORIrving's Ashes Taken to The Historic AbbeyFINAL CEREMONY WILL OCCUR
THIS AFTERNOON.Thousands Stood In Silent Grief or Thronged the Room Where Remains Rested.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The ashes of Sir Henry Irving, enclosed in a plain oak coffin, are now lying in the chapel of St. Faith, Westminster Abbey, waiting tomorrow for a solemn ceremony of interment in Poet's Corner. Their removal from the residence of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, which was guarded by a large force of police, took place this evening.

The coffin was placed in a hearse preceded by mounted police and followed by one carriage, the occupants of which were the two sons of the deceased and Sir Henry's aged dresser, Warden Collier, who has been his attendant for half a century. This modest procession was brought up by another squad of mounted police. The entire route to the Abbey was lined by thousands of persons. The men, standing bareheaded, waited in respectful silence until the hearse passed, and then joined in the procession behind the police. On arrival at the Abbey the entire square was filled with a half a million people. The hearse was driven into the Dean's yard where it was met by the Dean of Westminster and a number of clergy.

The scene was most impressive, as the procession moved and disappeared among the gloomy, time-worn cloisters. The silence was broken only by the murmur of the choir and the sound of the organ. The public was not admitted to the Abbey. As the procession entered the great organ softly played the Dead March from Saul until the chapel of St. Faith was reached and the coffin had been placed on a catafalque. When the music stopped, a short prayer was said by the dean.

An open grave in Poet's Corner awaits tomorrow's ceremony. It is lined with heavy black cloth, which also carpets the floor for a distance of several yards. The walls of the chapel are banked with great piles of floral tributes.

For hours today a constant stream of people filed past the casket as it rested in the dining room of Baroness Burdett-Coutts. Burning tapers surrounded the catafalque and the wealth of floral tributes, American and continental as well as British, was so great that the catafalque was not only hidden but floral offerings lined the bases of the walls of the spacious apartment.

Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid are coming to London especially from Scotland to represent the United States at the funeral tomorrow.

The coffin is covered with a pall composed entirely of laurel leaves, the gift of an anonymous admirer.

Among the signatories to the memorial praying for interment in the Abbey were Algernon Charles Swinburne, George Meredith and Joseph Chamberlain. J. L. Thomson, the sculptor, made a cast of the actor's features today.

BIG FIRE AT SELMA

PLANT OF RAISIN COMPANY GOES UP IN FLAMES.

Loss Is Estimated at $100,000. The Growers Were Fully Insured—Heroic Fire Fighting.

SELMA, Oct. 19.—Fire broke out in the Selma packing house district at 8 o'clock this morning and destroyed $100,000 worth of property within one hour. The fire was first discovered in the office of Plant No. 2 of the California Raisin Growers' company, packing house, (the old K. V. warehouse) and spread with rapidity to the whole building, threatening destruction to the entire packing district. So rapid was the spread of the flames that within five minutes after the first alarm the house was a mass of flames. The Kutter-Goldstein storage house and the German hotel building across the street were saved by the energetic fire fighters, and the work in preventing a general conflagration in the packing district to the north and west. Guggenheim's packing house across the track caught several times and it was also a hard fight to check the flames from spreading to the old Co-operative packing house, which is used as an operating department by the growers' company.

The Kutter-Goldstein storage room was ablaze several times and the heat from the packing house was so intense that work upon this building was a hot ordeal for the fire-fighters. A bucket brigade and the free use of wet blankets, however, prevented this building from burning. This building was in a position so that had it burned the German hotel, Carnegie library and the large mercantile establishment of Kutter-Goldstein company would have been in the pathway of the flames.

A string of freight cars on the siding were saved by the prompt effort of citizens who pushed them out of the danger zone notwithstanding the intense heat. The people worked hard and faithfully to save the railroad property and but two cars caught fire. One of the cars was pushed down the track, where it was convenient to a stand-pipe and the flames were put out. The latter car was loaded with raisins and it stood at least fifty feet from the burning building when the flames caught through the intense heat. This will give an idea of how hot a place the people ran into in order to save the cars.

Two little children came near being burned severely by the scorching heat and but for timely assistance would perhaps now be mute victims of the flames. They were W. H. Byers' little girl and boy, aged 3 and 6 years. The children had started down town and arrived opposite the burning packing house at a time when the heat was the greatest. They became frightened by the scorching heat and crowded up against the fence, too scared to run away. A gentleman noticed them and hurried them to a place of safety. The legs of the little girl had been severely blistered. The little boy's hands and face were also burned.

Henry Evans, proprietor of the City Stables, cleared his place with the expectancy of losing his barn and the exacting of much activity in the work of protecting other property.

Fortunately the wind was not blowing at the time of the fire or the loss would have been much more extensive. The flames from the burning packing house went straight up and carried many burning embers high into the air, but there were mostly burned out before striking again and no fires resulted from embers. Some of the embers were carried a quarter of a mile.

The loss by the fire will be partially covered by insurance and it is said that the Growers' company plant and goods were fully covered. Manager F. C. Gray stated this morning that the raisins stored in the house would amount to between four and five hundred tons. He could not give the exact figures. The company books and papers were burned as the safe was open at the time of the fire. These records are, however, kept in duplicate at Fresno and no confusion will result from the loss of the papers here.

The losses are given as follows from estimates made this afternoon: Growers' company, raisins, boxes, etc., $60,000. Fully insured.

Kutter-Goldstein Co., warehouse, wheat, barley, flour, etc., stored therein by them, $15,000. Insurance $60,000.

C. Batchold, milling wheat stored in the warehouse, estimated value $16,000. Partially insured.

Southern Pacific Co., damage to track, loss of one car and damage to another, $25,000.

Home Packing Co., prunes in storage, $20,000. Partially insured.

Honey in storage, $240. Unknown owners.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The general opinion is that a lamp in the office was left burning and exploded. However, this is denied by the packing house employees.

Moore secretary. R. L. Hargrove, R. E. Rhodes and others addressed the meeting. Some of the speakers were of the opinion that the advantages sought to be gained could only be acquired through incorporation, and a motion was made to get the sense of the meeting on that subject. A substitute to the motion was carried and a committee of the following named was appointed to secure the necessary data relating to the assessable property in the district: C. S. Homeover, R. L. BARTON ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Eckhardt's Ideals in Repertoire for Week Beginning Sunday.

The Eckhardt's Ideals, in repertoire which will appear at the Barton for a week's engagement commencing next Sunday night, will introduce high class specialties between the acts, thereby eliminating the long waits. Their repertoire contains the latest and best plays, and Oliver J. Eckhardt and Georgia Nichols, who play the leading roles, are ably supported by a company of artists. Lovers of high class comedy and drama will have ample opportunity of enjoying themselves at popular prices upon this occasion. In all probabilities the "Ideals" will enjoy large patronage during their engagement. The opening bill will be the beautiful Southern melodrama Virginia. Seats are now on sale; prices 10, 20 and 30 cents.

"Peggy from Paris." The musical comedy which was written by George Ade, the famous humorist, and is to be offered at the Barton next Tuesday night, October 26th, contains striking and original characters who are delightfully amusing. Among the clever comedy portrayals are those of two animated Frenchmen, M. Howard and M. Folios-Bergere, members of the Franco-American League. These Frenchmen are in quest of Mlle. Fleurette Caramella, who is "Peggy from Paris" to whom they wish to tender an address of welcome. Throughout the piece and almost to the very end they play in pantomime. They dress and act exactly alike. They are continually bobbing up through the play, their appearance heralded by a certain strain of music which always precedes their entrance. Their steps, gestures and expressions are the counterparts of the other. Their continued reappearance in this manner is decidedly droll.

NEWS OF VISALIA

WISHON LOSES CONTEST AGAINST GLOBE POWER CO.

A Bartender and a Confederate Brutally Beat and Rob Drunken Man—Notes.

VISALIA, Oct. 19.—The commissioner of the U. S. land office has affirmed the decision of the registrar and receiver of the Visalia office in the case of A. G. Wishon of Fresno, protestant and adverse claimant, against the Globe Light and Power company, in favor of the latter.

The application of the Globe Light and Power company for a right of way for a power plant and flume above Springville in the Sierra Forest reserve was approved and that of Wishon for the same site rejected. Later a contest was instituted by Wishon. A hearing was had for the purpose of determining the Globe Light and Power company's intentions and ability to install the plant. It was ascertained that $150,000 had been subscribed by the company for the prosecution of the work as soon as the application had been granted and that the company had the backing of the Mt. Whitney Power company, which owns a controlling interest of the stock.

The officers believe they have a strong case against Tom Stokes and "Billy" Kincaid, arrested at 2 o'clock this morning for robbing a man named Orvin Connelly, the crime having been committed but a short time previously. Stokes and Kincaid are in jail and the evidence points strongly toward their guilt.

Connelly had recently come down from the Sequoia mills, where he had been working during the summer. While intoxicated last night he exhibited considerable money. About 1 o'clock this morning he was seen to go out the back door of the Visalia house and was followed by Kincaid, the night bartender at the place. Later Kincaid reappeared and was later joined by Stokes. An hour later a noise was heard at the rear door which was opened and Connelly was assisted inside. He had been struck in the face with a club and his money to the amount of $285 and a ticket to Johannesburg, taken.

From the tracks it is evident that the two men waited for Connelly while the latter was in a small outhouse and struck him as he emerged. Connelly, loaded with them not to kill him and told the pocket in which his money was located. Later the victim recognized Kincaid as one of the assailants while the latter was wiping the blood from his face with a sponge.

Both Kincaid and Stokes have a bad reputation, having been arrested several months ago on a charge of robbing a man in a poker game, but the proof was not at hand and they were discharged. The shoes of the two prisoners were this morning found to fit the tracks made in the rear of the house where the robbery was committed.

Judge Wallace has rendered a decision in the case of Solomon C. Page et al., against Elias Page et al., brought to remove a cloud from the title of the property in the Page trust, in favor of plaintiff.

Arthur Kelley has returned from Deer Creek Hot Springs, where he went some time ago for the benefit of his rheumatism. He has recovered and has discarded his crutches.

AGAIN WINS CASE
DILLINGHAM ON FIFTH TRIAL
GETS JUDGMENT FOR $111.03.
Selma Bank Has Mortgage on Litigated
Property of Livermores—Superior Court.

Judge Wallace of Visalia has given judgment for the plaintiff in the suit of W. C. Dillingham against the Carl & Sample Carriage Co. The amount of the judgment was $111.03. This was the result of the second trial of the case in the Superior court. A previous judgment was given by Judge Austin for the plaintiff.

Dillingham represents a Los Angeles company that furnishes calendars. An order was given the company by Carl & Sample. The company claimed that it had already gone to the expense of printing the calendars and that Carl & Sample had no right to stop the delivery. The evidence in the case was listened to about two weeks ago by the Visalia county judge.

This is the fifth time a judgment has been entered because the order for the calendars was countermanded. First a suit on contract was given Dillingham in the lower court and reversed on appeal. Dillingham then got damages awarded both in the lower court and in the Superior court. On account of errors in the findings of the judge a new trial was allowed.

Also Has Mortgage.
Another move has been made against the property of the Livermores of Selma. On Wednesday suit was commenced by Verondia Livermore to keep the Farmers' Bank of Selma from carrying out a judgment in attachment.

Mrs. Livermore claimed the property and said that the attachment should fall to the ground because in the suit her husband had been named as defendant. Yesterday the Farmers' Bank of Selma began suit against both the Livermores, husband and wife, on a mortgage to a part of the property named in the attachment suit and also in the suit filed by Mrs. Livermore on Wednesday. The bank asks that the mortgage be foreclosed. The bank then has two liens on the property—an attachment judgment and a mortgage. L. C. Cory represents the bank. The note covered by the mortgage was for $1600 and was given on July 31, 1903. The property in question is lots 5 to 8, Woods tract.

Trial Drags Along.
The trial of the suit of H. J. Greve against the Echo Oil Co. was again taken up yesterday by Judge Austin. This case is a simple suit for wages, but it is full of objections and arguments.

Greve claims $660 in wages due him and $80 for A. M. Kenney and $243 for W. J. Kenney, whose claims have been assigned to Greve. O. L. Everts is appearing for the plaintiff and S. L. Carter for the defense. Carter is imposing objections whenever there is the slightest occasion. Yesterday when the plaintiff had finished its case he moved for a non-suit on the ground that no case had been shown under the law. The motion was taken under advisement by Judge Austin.

For the defense were called J. L. Mitchell, secretary of the company, Greve, C. L. Wainwright and G. R. Baird. The defense claims that the debt was obliterated by a transfer of stock from one oil company to another. The case was continued until this morning.

Want Divorces.
Two suits for divorce were commenced yesterday. Jessie A. Brennan asks divorce from John A. Brennan and S. E. Baucum wants one from Mattie Baucum. S. L. Carter is attorney in the first case and Ernest Kietze of Selma in the second.

Cruelty is the ground of complaint alleged by Mrs. Brennan. She says she was married in Merced five years ago and that since then very often her husband has mistreated her. Last June he was particularly cruel. She says she cannot endure the treatment.

Incorporation.
The Cobb-Evans Carriage & Implement Co. has filed articles of incorporation. The purpose of the incorporation is to carry on the kind of business indicated in its name. The capital stock of the company is $25,000, of which $17,700 has been subscribed as follows: C. H. Cobb $7500, A. J. Cobb $7500, C. B. Evans $2500, C. S. Hill $1000, Miles Wallace $1000.

Miscellaneous Matters.
Suit to quiet title was commenced yesterday by Shepherd-Teague Co. against C. E. Dawson and A. W. Fletcher. The property in question is lot 15 of Noes colony and lots 3, 4, 27, 28, 45 to 52, California Poultry farm. E. A. Williams is attorney for the plaintiff.

Judge Church has sustained the demurrers in the Cuthbert Barral Co. against W. S. McSwain et al, and Tayan against Josephian.

J. A. Wells as administrator of the estate of Emma G. Wells wants his sale of real estate of the estate of W. E. Walker for $2900 confirmed.

This friend asked Parsley to accompany him to a ranch about fourteen miles out in the country, belonging to J. E. Dickenson of this city, where his little daughter is living with his wife's parents. Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Young. The child's father and mother are separated, the mother working here in town. The two visitors got into a quarrel with the old folks, which grew into a fight in which the old man is alleged to have struck Parsley with a hammer. The warrant was put in the hands of Constable Dumas.

Crazy Orientals.
Charley Wing, the crazy Chinaman, who has a distaste for clothes and has been keeping everyone around the jail awake nights by screaming and throwing his bedding about, was yesterday examined in Judge Austin's court for insanity. When he was taken before Mrs. Long and Hopkins, he quieted down and asked questions in such a ready manner that the physicians decided that they could not adjudge him insane without more evidence. The hearing will be continued at 11 o'clock this morning, when Quong Ngow Lung, and others that know the man, have been subpoenaed to appear.

Constable Al Mason of Fowler came to town yesterday afternoon with a crazy Japanese, who had been giving trouble on a ranch where he had been working. The fellow, who is looked as S. Kawayashi, had to be tied by his fellow workmen to prevent him doing them injury. He jabbers away in Japanese about his supposed enemies and fights with teeth and nails. He will be examined today.

CARING FOR DEFECTIVES.

The letters of A. J. Pillsbury, now being printed in the Republican and in many other newspapers, will be a very valuable education for the people of California in regard to the methods of handling the dependent and delinquent classes. Mr. Pillsbury is a shrewd observer and a very clever writer, and his contributions could not be otherwise than interesting, especially as the semi-official character of his errand has given him exceptional opportunities for seeing things. He was of course sent East primarily for the education of the government rather than of the people of California, to furnish the legislature and the proper executive departments with expert information in regard to the actual results accomplished in the conduct of public institutions in the East. But there is practically no such thing as educating the legislative department of our state government. We have some expert administrators, who do the best they can with the institutions committed to their charge, but the best of management can not turn out the right results from the wrong institutions. Fundamental reform must come from the legislature. And the majority of our legislators, unfortunately, are never more than sixty days removed from ignorance of their duties. Most of the members of each legislature are new, and the few older incumbents find a whole session too short to wait for their colleagues to learn the ropes. At the end of sixty days, when the legislature is just beginning to get ready to start to know the elements of legislative knowledge, the legislature ceases to be, and the whole task has to be done all over again. The only way really to educate the legislature of California is to educate the whole people, so that whenever happens to drop into the legislature will have some knowledge to begin with. This is the service these letters are rendering, and their publication in the newspaper is thus more important than their transmission to the governor and through him to other departments of the government.

This whole question of the handling of defectives and delinquents is tremendously important, and nowhere more so than in California. Our genial climate attracts multitudes of leisure from both ends of the social scale, and from the vagrant and the recruited criminals, paupers and degenerates, while from their descendants are recruited the feeble of mind, character and will, the reformatory youths and defectives of various sorts. All these classes, as well as orphans and half-orphans, are rendered the more numerous by the very blessings of our climate. A large part of the revenue of the state and of the various localities is now devoted to caring for them, and most of it is wasted. Part of it is wasted everywhere, for perfection is reached nowhere, but a very approximate degree of success has been attained in some states, and these are the states to study.

The Woman's club of Philadelphia proposes to ask President Roosevelt to suggest a remedy for the increasing number of runaway husbands. Dr. Rachel Skidgley, of the Woman's club, says that since President Roosevelt is an advocate of large families, "he is the one who ought to advise the association how to keep husbands at home." An authority only less than the president—the only living ex-president—has suggested that the women's clubs themselves are one of the reasons why husbands run away from home. And certainly some explanation of the reason why they run away is needed before intelligent advice can be given as to how to keep them at home. President Cleveland would say "let the wives stay at home themselves," but this answer would hardly satisfy these particular engineers. And, besides, some husbands are driven away not by the absence, but by the presence of their wives. Why should a woman, contented woman want her husband to "stay at home" anyway? She does not enjoy his company, and sees to it that he shall not enjoy hers. The law requires him to provide for her, and that law should be enforced, much better than it is. But the law does not require anybody to "stay at home," and the sort of women who are looking for such a law are the very sort who are least entitled to it.

Colonel Bryan made a speech to the students of Waseda University, Japan. His simple style and clear enunciation made his speech intelligible to even the youngest students," says the dispatch. Which is a reminder of two things, first, that Mr. Bryan knows how to speak English, an accomplishment all too rare and too little appreciated in this country; and second, that all the educated students in Japan can understand English. What American university is there in which the majority of the students could understand a speech in French or German? Most American students study these languages but they can speak them, or understand them when spoken. But every educated Japanese under forty or forty-five years old, as well as many of the older generation, speaks English. English is guiding the globe. And its spread to Japan, besides being an honor and a commercial convenience to us, means one more thing hitherto little realized. It adds to the field of English literature. The man who writes in English, now, whether in pure literature or in a work of science or information, has for part of his audience the whole educated part of the population of Japan.

From Valley Papers

A man who slips up behind his victim and shoots him in the back is a gentleman compared with a man who would wreck a train for personal spite, either against the company or the employee. In either case, his dastardly work endangered the life of every passenger on the train. It is to be hoped that the miscreant may be speedily found and as speedily brought to justice.—Visalia Courier.

The great land holdings by individuals or syndicates in this state have done much to retard the natural development of California. It is not the large holder who builds up a state, but the small farmer—the one who settles down on ten or twenty acres and goes to work to get the most out of it. The more there are of these small farmers, the greater will be the development of the country, for the prosperity of any country is almost entirely dependent upon the number of homes it contains. These great tracts of thousands of acres were never homes. Frequently their owners not only did not live on them, but often never saw them, and a natural heritage of these conditions, would in the ordinary course of events, have been a system of half-fertile estate with a dependent and inferior worker of the soil. Political events ordained a different fate. Alta California, the Twenty-Ninth, was the latest step in an industrial evolution that has been under way since the days before the Gringo came.—Modesto News.

While Kern county peace officers were out scouring the desert for an escaped Fresno criminal, the editor of the Fresno Republican was busy writing an article condemning Bakerfield for its lawlessness. The roast was a particularly bitter one, the Republican evidently hoping to attract attention from the bloody record of its own city where six murders have been committed within the past few weeks. First Los Angeles and then Fresno take their whack at Bakerfield, but this article continues to be the leading piece in the state. It is progressing so rapidly that in the course of its business it has long since passed Fresno, and its flight shipments are considerably in excess of those of Los Angeles. Our jealous neighbors may continue to knock but Bakerfield will keep right along forging to the front nevertheless.—Bakersfield Californian.

There has been another disastrous wreck on the "Owl" train, which runs between San Francisco and Los Angeles. Soon the accident insurance companies will be inserting in their policies a forfeiture clause, providing that any of its patrons who risk their lives on the train forfeited to forfeit their life insurance.—Hanford Journal.

I returned from San Francisco on the overland Santa Fe train Sunday night. In the Pullman berth just opposite mine there was a man and his wife. He certainly deserves pity. To her he seemed nothing more than an errand boy. His name was Jerry. She had him no less than a dozen errands for her in the half hour before the berth were made up for the night. She never even gave him a smile for his kindnesses, and once she asked him why he didn't move a little faster. He seemed to do her bidding like one who had become accustomed to one's faith. As I closed the curtains of my berth, I heard her giving him orders. Then I fell asleep, profoundly grateful that I wasn't handicapped by such a burden of feminine turbulence.—Visalia Delta.

STOLEN MONEY
IN SUIT CASE

THIEF'S BROTHER-IN-LAW HAD IT AND DIDN'T KNOW.
Express Company Swag Was Sent Without Name and Lay Unclaimed in House.

BRISTOL, Conn., Oct. 19.—Nearly $80,000 of the money stolen by George Edward Cunliffe, October 9, from the Adams Express company in Pittsburg, was recovered tonight at the home of Joseph W. Boardman, Cunliffe's brother-in-law. For just a week the fortune had lain in an old suit case unknown to Boardman, who was holding the valise expecting its owner would call for it any day. The exact sum found was $79,953.55.

As the result of a statement made by Cunliffe in Bridport tonight that he had sent $85,000 of the plunder to his brother-in-law Boardman, in Bristol, a representative of the Associated Press called at the Boardman house and asked Boardman if that was so. Boardman, who is a young man and the agent here of the Electric Express company of Hartford, said he had received no money, but on October 10, a suit case came to his house from Bridport and as there was no name on it he had not opened it. His wife signed for the case and Boardman placed it in a closet, thinking it was sent to him as an agent of an express company to be called for later. Boardman told the Associated Press representative that if he wished he would send for the police and they could break open the case.

Sheriff Mienis and Captain Belden of the police force were then sent for, and in their presence the case was torn open. Huge bundles of money in the shape of bills tumbled out on the floor and also a black suit of clothes, a pair of shoes and a hat. The money was being counted, Superintendent J. C. Curtis of the Adams Express company's New England agency and William F. Minster, superintendent of the Pinkerton detectives, drove up to the house and were shown in.

There were fifteen bundles of $100 bills, making a total of $50,000, and the rest, with the exception of $3.55 which was in a pocket in the coat, was in $50 bills. No one was more surprised at the display of money than Boardman himself.

Boardman says he has received no word from Cunliffe during eighteen months and that if the fugitive had come this way he would have informed the police. Cunliffe is the brother-in-law of Boardman and he says he has letters from her since Cunliffe disappeared asking that he do all he could to find the missing man.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 19.—Cunliffe, who was arrested here today will be taken to New York tomorrow morning by a detective train. He had been in Bridgeport since he was recovered at the home of his brother-in-law in Bristol and pressed him to tell where the missing $20,000 was hidden. Cunliffe finally said: "You'll never get it. I have destroyed it."

He said he was afraid the bills would give him away, as they were of large denominations and practically marked, and they were notes of the Allegheny National bank in Pittsburg, and that everybody was looking for them. Cunliffe said that rather than carry them around he burned them.

If this statement is true and the detectives think it is the total amount of the money stolen is accounted for.

MISS ROOSEVELT'S GIFTS SHOULD BE ADMITTED FREE OF CUSTOMS DUTY.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 19.—The Nashville Chamber of Commerce today unanimously adopted a resolution requesting the secretary of the treasury, if possible, to admit free of duty the gifts of Miss Alice Roosevelt, inasmuch as they were not her own selection and purchase, but were presents from foreign people and could not be refused without the possibility of giving offense.

The Hidebound Professor.

Arthur E. Bostwick, the head of the circulation department of New York's free libraries, will not permit the circulation of George Bernard Shaw's books among his patrons because he considers the Shaw plays immoral.

A commission merchant reproached Mr. Bostwick for this action the other night. He said it was impossible to find anything immoral in Mr. Shaw's work. But the librarian defended himself stoutly and adroitly. He pointed out that he had many kinds of readers to tend for. Among other things he said:

"To be careful is not to be hidebound. To be zealous and strict is not to imitate the naturalistic German professor of Jena."

"This professor belonged to the Blackfriars school. The monistic theory was the very breath of his body to him. To say or do or think contrary to Blackfriars would have been impossible to this simple, narrow soul."

"There is a story at Jena that once the professor got shipwrecked on a tropical island. As soon as the ship struck, the old gentleman leaped overboard and swam ashore."

"But no sooner was he on dry land than he turned and plunged into the water again, and swam back to the ship."

"He seized his stout wife in his arms, leaped headlong overboard, and, despite his burden, again reached shore in safety."

"There the captain, who had already landed, said to him in an amazed tone: 'Why didn't you give your wife the first time?'"

"Ah," said the professor, with a satisfied smile, "I was bound to save myself first, you know. Self-preservation is nature's highest law."

RULL, WROG, Nov. 19.—A. J. Poshum, who shot and killed "Bob" Arnold last Saturday and has been on trial the past four days, was this evening released by order of Justice of the Peace Norris.

LINCOLN, Oct. 19.—The Supreme court tonight handed down decisions sustaining the constitutionality of the anti-cigarette law, the inheritance tax law and the law to prevent desecration of the American flag.

JEROME GAVE LIE
TO TAMMANY BOSS

AND FOLLOWED IT UP WITH A BITTER ROAST.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—William Travers Jerome tonight continued the vigorous independent campaign he is making for reelection to the office of district attorney. Jerome spoke to a great crowd gathered in Murray Hill church where he dismissed with the brief statement, "It is not true," the charge made today by Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, that Jerome had sought him in connection with the Democratic nomination.

The district attorney then attacked fiercely the present Democratic administration and the nominees. He was most bitter against Murphy and compared him disparagingly with Richard Croker, "a real man, a man with a jaw, a man that stood up and never lied to a friend; a man who stood good and true when he gave you his word and to you he would or he would not, and then did as he said. Croker was my friend, though I fought him for twenty years. That kind of a man I could deal with, not the miserable kind of a man from God Ground."

"Richard Croker, brave man that he was, was practically driven from this town by the one question, 'Where did you get it?' Where did this recalcitrant come of Croker, this faint imprint, this shadow of a mighty man, get it? I have served this people in public office for something like thirteen years in places where the 'stuff' was, if you were willing to take it. But I live today in as humble an apartment as any of you."

"Joint debate is a cheap thing to offer but, God helping me, I would like nothing better than a joint debate with Charlie Murphy. Half a dozen questions not out of the range of the criminal law and the weak shadow of a strong man would be effaced from the globe."

Jerome continued "I am offering to you in my weak person an issue so large that, when I stop to think I had the audacity to raise it, I tremble at my temerity. I have given you the clean cut issue, clean as it has never been before in this or any other community, between the selfish, grafting boss and the plain people whom Abraham Lincoln loved and trusted and I go forward to the seventh of November regardless of the results, for I believe as I stand here tonight that if I have raised the issue between the grafting boss and the servant of the people, the mighty voice of the people will be heard resonant and true, as it always has been heard in the cause of right."

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Charles T. Murphy, in denying some of the allegations which District Attorney William Jerome made in a speech last night at Carnegie hall, said today:

"Mr. Jerome said he never asked endorsement for any political party. Mr. Jerome asked a confidential friend to see me on two or three occasions on his own behalf. He said that he was anxious to meet me and to have a distinct understanding with me. He even agreed to join the Tammany Hall general committee. If Jerome denies this before the meeting here tonight we will prove the truth of it from the platform then."

In reply to these statements Jerome said today:

"I deny it. Let him prove it from the platform. But I will not say he did not send a messenger to me."

Dangerous Railroad.

A newspaper writer, meeting Lord Brassey at Red Bank, N. J., asked the distinguished foreigner if he feared to travel on American railroads.

"Oh, no," Lord Brassey answered. "Your American railroads kill a good many people in the year's course, but we must remember that they carry a good many people a good many miles. In proportion, probably, they do no more damage than the railroads of France or of Scotland."

The Scottish railroads used to be very dangerous, indeed. To ride on them was like traveling through a desert, as they were infested with brigands.

"The famous Dr. Norman Macleod was once about to set off on a long journey through Scotland. Just as his train was pulling out the clergyman's servant put his head in through the window and said:

"'Have ye taken an insurance ticket?'"

"'I have,' the doctor answered.

"'Then,' said the servant, 'write your name on it and give it to me. They have an awful habit of robbing corpses on this line.'"

The Ingenious General.

Chan Chau Man, the head of a Cantonese firm, employing over 10,000 hands, has been studying American industries. In Philadelphia, apropos of the Chinese awakening, he said:

"China has for thousands of years, been highly enough civilized to despise war. Her new-born respect for war is not an unmixed good. There is, perhaps, a little degeneration, of barbarism, in it."

But at least China will no longer be the laughing stock of nations more warlike than herself. It will no longer be possible to say of her, as the Japanese once said, that a Chinese general once explained a defeat with such a report as this:

"The ignorant enemy, unaware that guns could not be fired against an object behind them, came upon us from the rear, and thus rendered all our cannon useless."

The Fashion Note.

The man dressmaker, in his pink velvet coat, wrung his hands in despair. "Here it is October," he cried, "and I have not yet evolved a new idea in winter gowns."

"Master," said the appreciative, timid, "What, boy?"

"I have thought out a novel type of gown that will make a woman look like a broken-backed ape with wings."

"Superb!" the master cried. "Let us model it at once. 'Twill take the world by storm.'"

A Wise Child.

Paul Kester, the playwright, has bought Angell Castle, a stately pile that is said in England to be haunted. Mr. Kester loves the picturesque and travels much in search of it. He said one day at the Players' Club:

"They are wise, abroad, to treat tourists so well—to have such superb hotels at such reasonable rates, and all that sort of thing."

"Do you know how many million dollars Italy took from tourists last year? Well, I don't remember the figures myself, but at any rate they were enormous. They sharpened considerably the point of the school child's answer to the geographical question."

"What is the capital of Italy?"

"To this question the child's answer was:

"The money tourists bring in."

And Reed telegraphed back instantly:

"Buy a new shirt at my expense, and come anyway."

TAKING KINKS OUT

RESULT OF FIFTY YEARS' EFFORT IN REFORM SCHOOL.

The Era of Cells and Bars Has Passed—Manual Training and Military Drill.

By A. J. Pillsbury.
If I have a fault to find with those who have in their keeping the public institutions of California, it is that they do not, all of them, put themselves enough upon inquiry to find out what the world has already learned concerning the tasks which confront them. They seem to feel sufficient unto themselves when perhaps they may not always prove so.

It may be admitted, by way of exclamation, that knowledge without the requisite personality can not succeed, while the knowledge often does measurably well, but it is another text. The business in hand is to call the attention to the net results of fifty years of constant effort to take the tangles out of bad boys and girls at the Cocker Reform school.

The Era of Cells and Bars.
At the beginning there were barred and grated cells where lads of six and seven put their little hands through the bars and call that their school. Boys were whipped for infractions of the rules until their persons were so scabbed that infection was communicated to the officers in charge, and the physicians put a stop to the excess of cruelty in self-defense. Still the deformed characters of these wards of the state of New York were not reformed. Only the thoughtless were rounded up.

Other methods were tried with vigor and vigor, and the press and the public took flattering notice to their souls because, forsooth, bad boys by the score did better after they came out, and now and then one did admirably well, but those with eyes to see and hearts to feel knew that it was not the crooked that were being made straight. It was only the wrongly inclined twigs that were straightened up and perhaps braced by bitter experience against relapse.

A Manual Training Era.
Along about 1884 an enthusiast came over from the Boston Institute of Technology and lectured the board of managers of the reform school on the uses of manual training and the trade school. Another year saw the idea embodied in a series of reforms. It was valuable, exceedingly valuable, but left much to be desired.

In 1885 Vincent Hester, now of Elmira reformatory, introduced the military system in perfection, later adding rifles with bayonets, not ground off. This taught obedience, made discipline easier, and from that day to this there has not occurred a serious incident. Cause of those rifles with bayonets fixed. This gave the lads exterior carriage, erectness and alertness, but the internally deformed in character were seldom reformed to stay. It helped them to obey command but not to yield a willing assent.

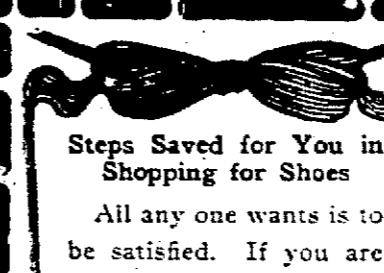

Girls' Department Closed.
About 1891 Professor Franklin H. Briggs, now and almost ever since the superintendent of the school, reorganized the educational system and gave the girls scientific cooking and artistic sewing. He also caused the girls and boys to be brought together as in the public schools, but this after a year and a half of trial was given up as a failure. It impaired the general efficiency and did not remove any deficiency. If the girls had been known to be good instead of bad, better results might have been obtained, but the chief character precluded the possibility of healthful relations between them and the boys. The girls were paroled one by one and their department was closed.

Corporal punishment was banished from the school fifteen years ago and a well devised system of merits and demerits, of fatigue exercises and solitary confinements, was substituted. It was the work of a woman disciplinarian and was unflatteringly ordained, but as time passed the fatigue tasks were increased and the confinements lengthened, in the hope of reforming deformed characters, but with only a passable measure of success.

Going to the Country.
The upshot of this fifty years of experience in trying with all the appliances known for a congenate system of custody, including all that education and industry, military discipline—all reinforced by the assiduous efforts of a Protestant and a Catholic chaplain, is that the state of New York has bought a farm and is moving the country as rapidly as the transition can be made. The congenate system has proven substantially, though not altogether, a failure. At least it has been confessedly found wanting.

The deification of the body is rife and incessant and cannot be broken up in a single night. Outside the body influences are another bar. Inside, only boy influences and is influenced by the mass.

It has been found impossible to force, for wages that the state will pay, subordinate officers temperamentally fit to do effective reformatory work among deformed characters, and the spirit of condescension has in a public institution, all opportunity to manifest itself. The central idea of reformatory reform is lost in a superabundance of attention to the operation of the mere detail machinery of institutional life.

Summing up the Results.
On the face of returns this institution has been a success. Only about ten per cent of those who have gone out from here have come up in prison. Seventy per cent have come out closed as reformed, and ten per cent more as probably reformed. The remainder are neither well nor where they are. If not criminals they are also not reputable citizens. Of the eighty per cent classed as reformed or probably reformed a round third of them could have been so classed and safely taken out to be placed in good homes the morning succeeding their several commitments. A single night within the barred gates, to show them that society had taken within its grasp, would have done as much toward making good boys of them as punishment can do. All they need in need of was a chance out to be so well recognized in Rochester Reform school that the average term of confinement, although committed until majority, is about one year. As Professor Briggs declares, it is better to send two boys out at the end of one year and have to bring them back this, to keep them both in two years and have them both stay placed.Sending Them to Homes.
With this school as with others, the boys committed to its charge are mainly

"THE CHAPERONS"

TOOK GOOD CARE OF THE BARTON AUDIENCE.

It was a Clean, Entertaining Performance With Good Songs and Pretty Faces.

"The Chaperons," which held the house at the Barton last night, is as bright and tuneful a musical comedy as one would wish to hear. The reason for the small audience may very likely be attributed to the fact that so many of the theater patrons were taken in by the extensively advertised "The Girl From Kays" that they weren't willing to take chances a second time. "The Chaperons" was really what it was advertised to be. "The Girl From Kays" was not. It is a pity that the confidence of the theater patrons was shaken, for those who are fond of musical comedy (and most of them are) missed a clean, entertaining performance and some good music. The music of "The Chaperons" is the kind one takes away with him and hums unconsciously. It has a musical rhythm and melody that charm and it was reasonably well sung. The choruses were full, the men's voices being remarkably good—a fact often lacking in modern musical comedy. The scenery and costumes were quite pleasing and the "beauty show" divided by two would very likely pass muster. The tall assortment of girls carried off first honors and wore some pleasing costumes. The first act showed the Latin quarter of Paris and into it were introduced some attractive songs and dances. Of course, the cast includes the usual incongruous characters, who meet in gay much toward making good boys of them. The musical comedy is a thing of the past, and the first poster, who besides being a first rate comedian, has a nimbly pair of feet and does a clever buck and wing dance with a few interpolated gymnastics which brought forth of delight from the gallery gods. This role is done by Harold Ladeel. John Price as Algeon O'Shaunessy, studying rapid transit in Paris, was most popular with the audience and depicted the fat, jolly Irishman very cleverly. These two with Madelyn Marshall formed an entertaining trio. Miss Marshall had many original mannerisms and makes the role of Phrosia, a girl detective, rather a unique one. She does several songs, the best being "Samba," sung with a chorus. Ruth Lloyd as Arimantie Dodiocourt, managing director of the English and Continental order of Trained Chaperons, is most attractive. Her costumes were effective and her voice—well she didn't have to sing—she just talked—like Trixie Friganza. But it was quite as interesting as singing. Doris Goodwin had the role of Violet Sunilax, the sourette part, and sang several fetching songs. Her voice was clear and true and her acting added materially to her charm. Of the small parts Judith Hayes as a graceful dancer and presented picturesquely the typical French girl of the Latin Quarter. George Lydicker had the best voice of the company and his songs, "We're All Good Fellows," with male chorus and "Girle, My Girle," were the best of the evening.

The introduction of "The Whole Family" was a novelty and met with continued applause. Miss Goodwin sang the song and the "family" finally appeared. M. V. Strung was given an opportunity to show what he could do in "When I sang My Low C."

Saved His Life.
J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump on my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief; two dry bottles cured me sound and well. It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity. Geo. H. Monroe, Special Agent."

SOME ISSUES OF REAL IMPORTANCE

FOREST RESERVATION AND WHAT IT MEANS FOR DIXIE.

President Roosevelt's Speech at Raleigh, North Carolina, Was of Wide Reaching Scope.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 19.—Following is the speech delivered this afternoon at this place by President Roosevelt:

"I am glad here at the capital of North Carolina, to have a chance to greet so many of the sons and daughters of your great state."

"I congratulate you upon the great industrial activity shown in your commonwealth, an industrial activity which, to mention but one thing, has placed this state second only to one other in the number of its textile factories. You are showing in practical fashion your realization of the truth that there must be a foundation of material well-being in order that any community may make real and rapid progress. More and more you are giving care and attention to education; and education means the promotion, not only of industry, but of that good citizenship which rests upon individual rights and the recognition by each individual that he has duties as well as rights—in other words, that good citizenship which rests upon moral integrity and intellectual freedom."

Forest Preservation.

"And now I want to say a word to you on a special subject in which all the country is concerned but in which North Carolina has a special concern. The preservation of the forests is vital to the welfare of every country. One of the most obvious duties which our generation owes to the generations that are to come after us is to preserve the existing forests."

"The prime difference between civilization and uncivilized peoples is that, in civilized peoples, each generation works, not only for its own well being, but for the well being of the generations yet unborn and if we permit the natural resources of this land to be destroyed so that we hand over to our children a heritage diminished in value we thereby prove our unworthiness to stand in the forefront of civilized peoples."

"One of the greatest of these heritages is our forest wealth. It is the upper altitudes of the forest mountains that are most valuable to the nation as a whole, especially because of their effects upon the water supply. Neither state nor nation can afford to turn these mountains over to the untrained greed of those who would exploit them at the expense of the future."

"We cannot afford to wait longer before assuming control, in the interest of the public, of these forests, for if we do wait the vested interests of private parties in them may become so strongly entrenched that it may be a most serious as well as a most expensive task to control them. If the Eastern states, and especially then from the Bay of Fundy to the Gulf we will see, within the next few years, a policy set on foot similar to that so fortunately carried out in the high Sierras of the West by the national government."

"The maintenance of your Southern water powers is not less important than the preservation of forests because if they are injured your manufacturing interests will suffer with them. The perpetuation of your forests, which have done so much for the South, should be one of the first objects of your public men."

Railroad Growth.

"The extraordinary development of industrialism during the last half century has been due to several causes, but above all the other is the enormous growth of railroads."

"Instead of the old highways open to every one on the same terms but of a very limited usefulness, we have new highways—railroads—which are owned by private corporations, and which are practically unlimited, instead of limited usefulness."

"The old laws and old customs which are adequate and proper to meet the old conditions need radical adjustment in order to meet these new conditions."

"The cardinal features in these changed conditions are, first: the fact that the new highway, the railway, is, from the commercial standpoint, of infinitely greater importance to our industrial life than was the old highway; and, second, that this new highway, the railway, is in the hands of private owners, whereas the old highway, the wagon road, was in the hands of the state. The management of the new highway, the railroad, or rather of the intricate web of railroad lines which cover the country, is a task infinitely more difficult, more delicate, and more important than the primitive, easy task of acquiring or keeping in order the old highway; so that there is properly no analogy whatever between the two cases."

Government Ownership.

"I do not believe in government ownership of anything which can with propriety be left in private hands. A particular I should most strenuously object to government ownership of the railroads. But I believe with equal firmness the government ought to exercise a supervisory right over the railroads; for it is vital to the well being of the public that they should be managed in a spirit of fairness and justice toward the people. Experience has shown that it is not possible to leave the railroads uncontrolled."

"Such a system, or rather, such a lack of system, is fertile in abuses of every kind and puts a premium on unscrupulous and ruthless cunning in railroad management; for there are some big shippers and some railroad managers who are always willing to take unfair advantage of their weaker competitors and they thereby force big shippers and big railroad men who would like to do decently into similar acts of wrong and injustice, under penalty of being left behind in the race for success. Government supervision is needed quite as much in the interest of the big shipper and the railroad manager who want to do right as in the interest of the small shipper and the consumer."

The Real Need.

"What we need is to have some administrative body with ample power to forbid combination that is hurtful to the public and to prevent favoritism to one individual at the expense of another. In other words, we want an administrative body with the power to secure fair and just treatment as among all shippers who use the railroads—and all shippers have a right to use them. We must not leave the enforcement of justice to the department of justice. It is out of the question for the law department of the government to do what should be purely administrative work."

"The department of justice is to stand behind and co-operate with the administrative body but the administrative body itself must be given the power to do the work and then held to a strict accounting for the exercise of that power. The delays of the law are proverbial, and the need of a more expeditious and equitable method of action is obvious."

Abuses Are Many.

"The abuses of which we have a genuine right to complain take many shapes. Rebates are not now often given openly. But they can be given just as effectively in covert form; and private cars, terminal trucks and the like, must be brought under the control of the commission or administrative body which is to exercise supervision by the government."

"But, in my judgment, the most important thing to do is to give this administrative body power to make its findings effective and this can be done only by giving it the power to impose a fine of a given rate as being unjust or unreasonable, if it finds the complaint proper, then itself to fix a maximum rate which it regards as just and reasonable, this rate to go into effect practically at once, that is, within a reasonable time and to stay in effect unless reversed by the courts. I earnestly hope that we shall see a law, giving this power passed by congress."

Real Supervision.

"Moreover, I hope that by law power will be conferred on representatives of the government capable of performing the duty of public accountants carefully to examine into the books of railroads when so ordered by the interstate commerce commission which should itself have power to prescribe what books, and what books only, should be kept by railroads. If there is in the minds of the commission any suspicion that a certain railroad is in any shape or way giving rebates or behaving improperly, I wish the commission to have power, as a matter of right, not as a matter of favor, to make a full and exhaustive investigation of the receipts and expenditures of the railroads so that any violation or invasion of the law may be detected. This is not a revolutionary proposal on my part, for I only wish the same power given in reference to railroads that is now exercised as a matter of course by the national bank examining officers regarding national banks. I hope to see all the power that I think it ought to have granted to the government; but I would far rather see only some of it granted, but really granted, than see a pretense of granting all in some shape that really amounts to nothing."

STARTED ON INDIAN TOUR
PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES LEFT FOR BOMBAY.

Contrary to Custom There Will be No Ceremonial Giving or Receiving Presents.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The prince and princess of Wales started on their six months' tour of India today. King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the members of the family and the cabinet ministers bade them farewell at the railroad station.

The prince and princess of Wales are going overland to Genoa, Italy, where they will embark on the British battleship Renown, which is due to arrive at Bombay, November 9th. They will stay in India until March, visiting the principal cities and native states and receiving the chiefs and princes on behalf of King Edward. The exchanges of ceremonial presents will be dispensed with, and consequently no presents will be accepted by the prince and princess while on their tour.

The departure of Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the viceroy, who resigned on August 20th, owing to the bitter feeling between the viceroys and Lord Kitchener, the commander-in-chief of the forces in India, and who will be succeeded by the earl of Minto, was postponed in view of the fact that King Edward desired Lord Curzon to remain and officially welcome the prince and princess of Wales.

DEVIL'S ASSETS APPEAR TO EXCEED GROSS LIABILITIES.

TOPEKA, Oct. 19.—The report of the receivers filed today in the United States District court here showed the assets of the various properties of C. J. Devlin, who failed last July, to be $4,956,948, and the direct liabilities $4,592,208.

This indicates that the assets amount to nearly $366,000 more than the direct liabilities. There is listed however, $1,039,319.90 in contingent liabilities, these being liabilities for which the receivers do not know whether they are liable or not. Should it be necessary to pay these liabilities will exceed the assets by $674,439.

The most interesting item in the report is that one which deals with J. Devlin personally. This shows that his personal assets amount to $1,747,416, and that his direct liabilities are $804,442. This is listed separately in the report, because of the interview relations existing between Devlin and his several companies. Among the contingent liabilities is an item of $22,000 owed by the Western Fuel Company, in which Devlin was largely interested and which is in involuntary bankruptcy.

DELANO JUSTICE WAS FOUND DEAD BY THE JANITOR OF HIS OFFICE.

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 19.—Captain D. S. Cloverdale, justice of the peace at Delano, a veteran of the Civil war and a resident of this county, for fifteen years, was found dead in the rear of his office at Delano early this morning. His death was probably due to heart failure. Captain Cloverdale was last seen alive at 5 o'clock last evening. He was then apparently in good health. When he did not appear at his home it was thought that he had gone to Bakersfield on business. When the janitor of his office opened the building at 6 o'clock this morning the body was discovered. The deceased was over 70 years of age and was well known throughout the state.

Entrance Age Reduced to Sixteen Years — Suicide Claims Will Be Paid Up to 60 Per Cent.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 19.—The high court of the Independent Order of Foresters, in session at the state capital for the past three days, completed its business late this afternoon and adjourned to meet in San Francisco next year. The sessions today were executive and several important matters of legislation were acted upon. The report of the committee on the state of the organization, announcing the appointment of D. J. Davis of Sacramento as second supreme court deputy, was unanimously approved.

An important item in the way of legislation was that transferring business headquarters of the order from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

The high court voted unanimously against a proposal to disincorporate. The advocates of disincorporation had but a scant following.

Another important step taken was that reducing the age entrance into the order from 18 to 16 years.

The members of the companion courts will be enabled henceforth to take out insurance policies from $250 to $5000, the minimum being $500 heretofore.

The court adopted a resolution making disability claims payable in a lump sum as heretofore.

A new law was passed requiring applicants for admission into the order to subscribe to the constitution before presenting themselves for examination at the hands of the court physicians.

Heretofore the order has allowed but 20 per cent on suicide claims, but through the adoption of a resolution today claims of this character will be paid up to 60 per cent of the amount of the claim held by the suicide.

The high court approved the action of the supreme court in levying a per capita tax of 1 cent a month on every member of the order for the support of the orphan's home at Toronto, Canada.

Before adjourning the high court adopted resolutions thanking the local courts, the press and the citizens of Sacramento for the kindly treatment accorded the delegates.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

STATE W. C. T. U. CONVENTION OPENS

VISITORS WELCOMED TO CITY BY MAYOR LYON, PRESIDENT HOBBS OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, AND OTHERS—FRESNO MINISTERS MUST BE IMPRESSED BY SOFT WORDS, SAYS, MRS. BALLACH— TODAY'S PROGRAM

Mrs. Sturtevant Peet. Mrs. Robert Ballach. Mrs. M. B. Pelton. State, local and county Presidents of W. C. T. U.

The state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be formally opened at 9:30 o'clock this morning by the president, Mrs. Beaumont Sturtevant Peet, in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. building.

Yesterday the local members of the union were busy engaged in welcoming the incoming guests, who arrived by every train, both from the north and from the south, and in making preparations for the jubilee meeting of the evening. An especially large delegation came here from San Joaquin county, and the other counties of the north and central parts of the state are well represented. Southern California has a separate state organization. The visitors were taken to the homes of various members for entertainment.

A group of five state officers arrived from the north on the Southern Pacific at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 4 an executive meeting was called to order at the Y. M. C. A. hall. This committee is composed of the state officers and the vice presidents of large cities, who are the presidents of the twenty-nine county or bi-county unions. The final consideration was given to the program for the convention.

The auditorium had been very tastefully arranged for the meetings of the convention. Banners of various counties are conspicuously hung, and the hall is beautiful with ribbon, potted plants and flowers.

The evening session was an informal affair, for the purpose of welcoming the delegates to the city and honoring those counties whose representatives could show the greatest increase in membership. It was called to order by Mrs. Sturtevant Peet at 8 o'clock, with the singing of America.

Mrs. Sturtevant Peet spoke a few words of welcome to the delegates, and the state officers had in coming to this city, she said that the purpose of the organization should ever be to bring about the prohibition of the liquor traffic. The president then introduced Mayor Lyon, who welcomed the visiting ladies with the following words:

Mayor Lyon's Address.

"Ladies of the W. C. T. U.:

"It is my pleasant privilege as the official head of this city to welcome you to our midst, with the hope and fervent belief that your session may prove of lasting benefit to this community.

"We appreciate the gathering of so influential a body in our city, and I trust your stay will prove both pleasant and profitable.

"Cause you represent, and whose principles you should commend, the respect and support of all people. You have taken upon yourselves the task of helping to elevate and uplift humanity; to brighten the homes and bring increase of happiness to thousands of human beings. It is a great work, one of the greatest in the world's history. Well has it been said, 'Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war,' and the woman's Christian Temperance Union add materially to the prosperity of our country.

"In our own way we have been trying to purify and better this city and to eliminate vice as far as possible; to encourage temperance in all things, and to do those things, within reason, that would make this a fairer and a better town.

"Your visit can but be productive of much good; it will bring the principles you stand for forcibly home to our citizens; it will cause men to stop and think; to make many resolve to follow the pathway of your union, thus bringing happiness and prosperity in its train.

"As the mayor of Fresno, I welcome you within our gates; may every moment of your time be pleasantly spent; may the desires of your organization be fulfilled, and when you leave us let it be with the knowledge that your session has done good to many and that we are genuinely glad that you came.

"As a Temperance Union, I have your work in sympathy. As mayor of this city, I have its growth at heart, its financial as well as moral growth and from the fact that I was elected by the union of the people, I am proud to be a part of the combination of business interests represented by her citizens, and upon this point I am perfectly satisfied that you will not disagree with me as I have never.

"I am sure that your organization stands for absolute prohibition, but simply for the principles represented and designated in the title of your organization, that is, temperance.

"I might say to you many things along the line of distinction between temperance and prohibition, but this is no time or place for such a lecture or talk, but I cannot be satisfied without justifying my position, as I have already enumerated it, by saying that we can look around us, even within the confines of our own state and find communities which by virtue of the fact that they have become prohibitionists, have inured very materially their business industries. With this idea in view I cannot but take the course I am pursuing. While it is my pleasure and duty to guide the destinies of the city of Fresno, I cannot lend myself to the approval of any course which has been a detriment to other localities. Our watchword must be with yours, 'Ever onward, upward and progressive.'

"An organization composed of so many brilliant minds and so many fair members of your sex can but prove highly entertaining to the citizens of this city; an organization founded upon the principles of the W. C. T. U. can but prove of great and lasting benefit to all. Fresno is to be congratulated upon your presence among us.

"Fair ladies, I take pleasure in welcoming you. The city is yours with all the men in it if you but express the wish."

President Hobbs' Address.

President A. L. Hobbs, of the Chamber of Commerce, was then introduced to welcome the state convention in the name of that body. He spoke in part as follows:

"You have heard of Fresno as the 'rain center,' but it is also the center of the state, for within our boundaries is the stone that marks the exact spot. We consider it not only the center of the state, but the converging point for a great many good things.

"I wish to invite you to come to the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce in the city park tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, where we hope to have both entertainment and refreshment for you, and then to take you on a trip through some of our surrounding country.

"The Chamber of Commerce has for its object the promotion of the material welfare of the community, as yours is to promote the religious and moral nature. We therefore can appreciate your cooperation in the general upbuilding of the community. I know that it is common on occasions like this for men to address audiences of women with flattering generalities about their fairness and gentleness and the like, but my wife has told me that I am a failure at that sort of thing so I shall avoid it here. What I can and do sincerely do say is that you deserve the prayers of every good citizen. We hope that you will work on and on until the great evil you oppose is destroyed and our sons and daughters are delivered from the danger.

"I bid you thrice welcome for the work you have done and for that which lies before you. Your prayers have kept many from moral decay; be not weary in your well doing. I feel like welcoming you in the name, not only of the Chamber of Commerce, but of every good citizen of Fresno."

Local Union's Welcome.

Mrs. Sturtevant Peet, accepted the invitation of the chamber in the name of the convention, and after expressing regret at the absence of Rev. Duncan Wallace who was to speak in behalf of the Fresno Ministerial union, introduced Mrs. Robert Ballach for the President of the W. C. T. U. who spoke in part as follows:

"In behalf of the local union of Fresno, we welcome you to our city, our homes and our hearts. There has been some feeling of trepidation on our part in having this distinguished body meet with us, lest we might not succeed in making all our arrangements satisfactory and congenial during your stay; but if we fail in our well meant endeavor, you will doubtless be indulgent and bear with our modest accommodations.

"In our unpretentious homes we can hardly promise you that you will find sumptuous every day, so it may be well to stir up your pure minds in remembrance that our white ribbons mean abstinence from over indulgence, and this note of warning may be pertinent when you shall be banqueted by our city Board of Trade, not to dottle yourselves with the wines and stronger meats which our city fathers eat and drink.

"We regret that we are not able to welcome you to a dry town, but we rejoice that we can introduce you to one such in our country, the aspiring and up-to-date little city of Selma near by, the 'billy of our valley,' where the fairest among women may walk her streets with garments undelled, where there is freedom from the abomination of the licensed saloon, and where the social evil hides its face with shame and the clamorous woman's state is not in the high places of the city to delude the simple who pass by her way.

"During the sessions of the annual state convention, it is our fondest hope that your presence may prove to us a heavenly benediction; that the grace and elquence which may be poured from your lips upon the question of temperance and how to clear up a city, that it may be raised to glory and greatness, may leave its impress not only upon those who are interested in moral and spiritual reform, but also upon our city officials, through whom and without whom little can be accomplished in this direction.

"We have been laboring hard to make them love us. Already they have been granting us some very important concessions, for which we are devoutly thankful. And now we will expect you to consummate these efforts, to pour out your love and affection upon them in such measure that hereafter they will not hesitate to grant us any reasonable favor or petition we may bring before them.

Shot at the Ministers.

"A word of caution may be well at this point to our visiting delegates. Ministers are a peculiarly sensitive sort of men, and in order to regain their favor and sympathy, as they have been somewhat ruffled hitherto by some of

SOCIETY

Yesterday was "ballad day" at the Parlor Lecture club and was in charge of the music committee of which Miss Jennie Knowles is chairman. The program was a delightful one including ballad selections by both foreign and American composers. Out of respect to Mrs. Adam Mowat, who is a member of the club, the usual social features attendant upon a music day were omitted and the club adjourned at the end of the program. Each member was allowed a guest and by the appointment hour the hall was comfortably filled with club members and their friends. The program opened with the singing of "America" by the club. A vocal duet followed and was delightful sung by Mrs. Ed Bush and Mrs. Warlow. The next number was a piano solo by Mrs. Henry Gundelfinger. Her selection was a charming Dvorak ballad called "Humoresque" and was played exquisitely. In response to an encore she gave Schumann's beautiful "Nocturne."

Miss Alice Brown followed with a delightful ballad, "The Mission of the Rose," by Cowen. Miss Brown has a full rich mezzo voice and uses it with much taste. Her numbers yesterday were most enthusiastically received. A ladies' quartet composed of Mrs. Ed Bush, Miss Alice Brown, Mrs. G. L. Warlow and Miss Jennie Knowles, sang several enjoyable selections. "Kathleen Mavourneen," the familiar old Irish ballad, was charmingly sung by Miss Katherine Balthis, who was in the best of voice and pleased her audience immensely. She responded to an encore with a pleasing Ave Marie. Miss Brown sang a second number, "Ben Bolt," the English ballad whose popularity has been revived by the revival of "Gypsy."

The last hope, by Gottschalk, was played by Miss Knowles, who in beginning told the interesting story of the music. The program concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the audience.

Mrs. William H. Ryan spent the early part of the week in San Francisco, returning on Wednesday night.

Our incisive speakers, we ask of you for their sakes—please do be pitiful, be courteous, don't scold, just keep from getting sour, prophesy smooth things, make them feel that they are just about 'it,' the prime movers of all reforms; so that after they see our penitence and that we have laid aside our bad habits and have become good, they will come back again after they have had their little put to our loving arms, to renew our friendship and to bask in the sweet sunshine in the bosom of our happy family.

"We welcome thee in the name of purity, purity for our homes, purity for the safety of our sons and the chastity of our daughters. We gladly do we welcome thee in our midst, for God and home and native land."

Mrs. Ballach closed with some verses written by her husband, Rev. Robert Ballach, of which the following are part:

"Our Mayor is a temperance man, And will help along the cause: Providing we will work and pray He'll conquer the laws. He asks our prayer, says he will help, And do his level best. If we'll be good and keep our place, Then he will do the rest."

Response for Convention.

Mrs. A. E. U. Hillis of Palo Alto responded to the speeches of welcome on behalf of the convention. She spoke of the importance of temperance work to the race, saying that scientists and sociologists are agreed that the supremacy of a people is dependent upon its temperance. She hoped the federal government would awake to the situation, and drive the whole traffic in alcohol out of the country. She said that strong drink would make of this people a nation of degenerates. The convention, she hoped, would breathe a reviving spirit upon the city it was visiting.

County Reports.

The rest of the evening was taken up with reports from the presidents of county unions that had a net increase of more than thirty-five during the last year. Mrs. S. M. M. Woodman, the "Daniel Webster" of the W. C. T. U., reported an increase of 145 for Alameda county. Mrs. Edith Whitman in reporting an increase of 98 for Santa Clara county set up the "humble but delicious prune" as against the raisin of this city. Mrs. Addie E. Estes of Stockton had the delegates from San Joaquin county sing some verses in honor of various state leaders.

Mrs. A. C. Rainbridge, in speaking for San Francisco, said that one of the worst ways to deal with a great city is the debasing influence of a lot of plenty of fresh air. She said that a temperance organization has a hard time in a place where there are as many as eleven saloons to the block and only fifteen places of business in all.

Whiskey in Selma.

Mrs. M. B. Pelton of Selma, in reporting for Fresno county, said there are many difficulties of temperance work in this county, but that they are being fought bravely by the W. C. T. U. women. In Selma, she said, there is still whiskey, in spite of the laws against it, but it is kept only in dark places, and the boys can realize that it is only the "sneaks" who drink in that town. Mrs. L. M. Holston, speaking for the county of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito, read a paper upon the increased opportunities for women to enter pursuits for self support.

"Blessed is the woman who has found her work."

Announcements by the president closed the evening.

The Ways of lovers are dark and mysterious. I think the friends of Miss Edna Giger, who were cheered out of an interesting wedding ceremony by the secret marriage of this young lady on Wednesday night to the man of her choice, R. A. Baird, a young electrician of Hanford. At half past 7 o'clock the young couple, accompanied by L. A. Severight of Hanford, a friend of the groom's, went to the Methodist parsonage, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harcourt W. Beck. Immediately afterwards they returned to the Giger home, confessed and received the parental blessing.

Later in the evening they took the Owl for Los Angeles where a brief honeymoon will be spent. Upon their return a reception will be given in their honor at the A. D. Giger residence on Tulare street.

Miss Marguerite Risley entertained the dozen ladies who are to meet once a week to play "500." The subject of the evening was "The subject of the evening was the subject of the evening." The subject of the evening was the subject of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Egerton R. Higgins are planning to leave the members of the Merry-Go-Round Whist club in honor of the home coming of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gundelfinger, two of the members. The usual time for formal opening of this congenial little company is the first Friday in November, but tonight's affair will be the preliminary re-organization at the president's home and will be the next business.

Miss Anna E. Chase.

A story, "How the Labor Banner was Captured Last Year," Mrs. Mae M. Whitman.

Evening, 7:45 o'clock.

Devotional service, Mrs. A. C. Bainbridge.

Solo, "The White Ribbon Star Spangled Banner," Mrs. Bailey.

Address, "Beyond the Horizon," Mrs. E. R. Miller.

"A Worker's Song," Mrs. O. E. O. Hillis.

Address, "Christian Citizenship," Mrs. S. M. M. Woodman.

Song, "This Temperance Makes Us Free," audience.

The song mentioned last on the program was written specially for this occasion by Mrs. Mary Fletcher Norwood of Fresno. It is to be sung to the tune of "Marching through Georgia," and is as follows:

"This Temperance Makes Us Free. Temperance is our corner stone Fidelity our rock From which our Unions stand secure From liquor storms and shock The honor of true womanhood And manhood we defend While we are marching to Victory.

Come on, Come on, the Ribbon White to wear Come on, Come on, our glory you shall share Gather round our Ribbon White Its motto 'Truth and Right' While we are marching to Victory.

Gather round our ribbon boys And let us sing With harmonies of Truth and Peace Till every heart shall sing Of love and friendship firm and strong Which through our lives will cling As we go marching to Victory.

The Stars and Stripes ar draped about Our altar's sacred shrine The Holy Book proclaims our faith In deity divine One brother's faults are all quite forgot Their virtues we opine While we are marching to Victory.

Francis Joseph Has Re-appointed Fejervary to Act as Premier.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 18.—In an autograph letter to General Baron Fejervary, gazetted today, the emperor king says it has not been found possible to form a new Hungarian cabinet from the ranks of the coalition party. Baron Fejervary has been re-appointed premier so as to provide for the conduct of the affairs of state on a responsible and constitutional basis. Referring to his declarations to the leaders of the coalition party, his majesty says that if they are properly interpreted they will show a complete understanding between the crown and the nation regarding the independence guaranteed by the constitution.

Windstorm in Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, O., Oct. 18.—Heavy windstorms occurred throughout Eastern Oklahoma Tuesday night. The worst was at Manfodokit where two children were killed and nine persons injured. Two probably fatally. At Meridian a house was demolished but no one was hurt. Near Cushing, farm buildings were damaged but no persons have been reported injured.

PRINTER'S INK PAYS

A Nation That Makes Sentiment the Text For Revolt

In point of fact, the emperor of Austro-Hungary is practically more of an autocrat over the Cisleithan portion of his dominions than is the czar over Muscovy. He has the power to make treaties, issue ordinances, grant pardons, appoint officials and to command, prorogue and dissolve the legislatures of both countries. Since he controls his ministers, he has it within his power to initiate legislation. He can even suspend the constitution in case of an emergency and govern by ordinance. It is true that every act of his must be countersigned by a minister, but as long as he controls the ministers that fact need not worry him. He is even so nearly absolute on the other side of the Leitha river. The emperor is a plain everyday constitutional king in Hungary, and there are any number of inherited rights which the Hungarians guard jealously. The monarch consists of two houses, the upper house of of magnates and the lower house. The members of the upper house are nearly all great landowners, and the ancient Magyar element predominates largely. It is the most exclusive and proudest aristocracy in Europe and wields an enormous power. Most of the members of the lower house are also Magyars in sentiment and many by actual descent. They are exceedingly intolerant of any thing calculated to lessen the Magyar influence in the kingdom and most of the disputes like at present, between the two countries have arisen from attempts to supplant the ancient language and customs by modern German substitutes. The Magyar language is the only Magyar recognized in Hungary proper, and the recent effort of the emperor and his advisers to have German taught in the schools and used in the army has met with an opposition which has shaken the empire on its foundations.

Out of a population of 19,000,000 the various other races outnumber the pure Magyars by 4,000,000, but the proud and ancient nation cannot be brought to yield a single one of its old time privileges without a fight to the death.

FUNERAL OF MOWAT

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES AT EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Many Beautiful Floral Offerings From Civic, Business and Fraternal Organizations.

The body was escorted from the home to the church by the Elks and a detail of firemen under Chief Ward. Before the time for the service the edifice was filled to overflowing. Attending in bodies were the Elks, the St. Andrews society, representatives of the Raisin Company, Chamber of Commerce and members of the Sequoia club and Ad Men's association.

The pall-bearers were representative of the different organizations and were as follows: L. E. Gray, Thomas H. Lynch, Mayor W. Parker Lyon, A. L. McCray, Edward K. Fernald, John Bonnar, James Anderson and V. H. M. MacLymont.

The services were impressively simple, consisting of hymns by the vocal choir, reading of the Scriptures, a beautiful passage on death, and a prayer.

The floral pieces were beautiful and elaborate testimonials of esteem. Besides many tokens from friends, there were handsome sets of pieces from the civic, business and fraternal organizations.

From St. Andrew's society was a large cross, and from the Sequoia club a scroll with the national flag at the top.

A huge "Gates Ajar" expressed the sense of deep loss of the employees of the Pacific Coast Seeded Raisin Company. The piece was made of roses and carnations, with a dove surmounting.

A large Star and Crescent of roses, carnations and maiden-hair fern was expressive of the appreciation of the Fire Department for Mr. Mowat's efforts in behalf of the fire lobbies.

The Fresno Ad Men's Association was represented by a pillow with the words "At Rest."

A huge pillow with the inscription "Of C." was sent by the Chamber of Commerce.

The Elks' emblem of esteem was a large floral dial. The piece was made of sweet peas.

A vacant chair, made of white roses, with the letter "S" on the back, told eloquently of the vacancy felt by the Sequoia Club, of which Mr. Mowat was one of the fullest members.

After the ceremony the remains were conducted to Stephens & Bean's chapel. There took place a pretty symbolic ceremony. The Elks placed upon the coffin, each a sprig of forget-me-nots and the members of the St. Andrews society deposited a bit of heath.

The remains were shipped to San Francisco last night, where at the Hotel Bolshoi crematory they will be reduced to ashes today. Rev. Harvey Hanson and the family accompanied the body, and the final services will be said there today. Accompanying the remains were Mrs. Mowat, her sister Mrs. Parmelee and father Mr. Sweetman, of Monterey, and C. A. Paulsen.
